THE RED BANDANA

Waving Over the Heads of the Vast Audience.

Sr. Louis, June 6. -[Special.] - Cleveland, without a dissenting voice, and amid such enthaslasm as was never before witnessed in the political history of this country, is the nomince for the presidency.

The democracy of the nation did today just what the world knew it would do. I saw Bisine nominated four years ago in Chicago, and the enthusiasm which greeted the event was unprecedented. It seemed as if the very building would be lifted from its foundation, but that was but the whistle of the wind against the fary of a cyclone in comparison with the thundering outburst of sentiment which greeted the presentation of Cleveland's

Dan Dougherty did his work nobly, and as he concluded the convention lost itself in the demonstration, described in detail in another column. There is no doubt of the genuinecess of the enthusiasm which swept the hall, no power on earth can defeat Cleveland this year. On no man has the party ever been so united, and to have witnessed the scene attending his nomination today is to be satisfied

THE HERO OF THE DEMOCRACY will again lead the party to glorious victory.

The convention had its heart in the work, and its demonstration was as earnest as it was Intense. There is not the slightest doubt as to its position on his tariff views, and would the platform committee not meet its requirements aor express its sentiments in tomorrow's report, it will do the work itself. No equivocation will be tolerated, and

A DIRECT TARIFF LINE will be drawn.

The contention in the platform committee is to be regretted from the fact that it can do no possible good and may do a great deal of harm. In Cleveland's re-nomination his message becomes the real platform of the party, whatever the convention say or do. Therefore, to commit the party to another policy siter re-nominating him, would be to put it in a most embarrassing position, though any declaration that It might make contrary to the president's message wouldn't alter the fact that the message is the real platform with Cleveland as the nominee, but there are strong men on the committee, put there by their own delegations, who are earnest in their convictions that it would be fatal for the convention to commit the democrats unreservedly to the policy of practical free trade. They believe that such

RESULT IN CERTAIN DEFEAT and unhesitatingly say so in urging their views. The strange thing about it all is that the platform committee is almost evenly divided, and every state was supposed to have had the question in view in choosing its commitan. New York chose Edward Cooper, and Maryland, Senator Gorman, and if this means that these two states indorse the views of their representatives it means a great deal. The committee has been in session since morning, and its proceedings have been of the liveliest character. Gorman and Cooper have the largest following, and have been contending with Scott and Watterson all day. Intense ment was created by the announcement that the committee had taken a recess at 3 o'clock, after having voted down the tariff Plank offered by Watterson as a substitute for hat submitted by Gorman. The latter is the plank of 1884, and Watterson's free traders, if it did not satisfy the protecman boom, and as a whole it would be better cionists. It placed satisfied with any other of those suggested. THE NECESSITIES OF LIFE ON THE FREE LIST, Notwithstanding the change in the situation declared ogainst the war taxes and building tonight, Thurman will be nominated tomorup of one industry at the expense of another; row. There is scarcely a doubt as to this, and opposed all taxation, import and otherwise, no his supporters laugh at the idea of there being necessary for the actual needs of the governany other outcome. THE GEORGIA DELEGATION. The following is the vote of the Georgia del-

ment, and heartily indorsed the president's nessage. It was hoped a conference of leaders could straighten the matter, and at three o'clock the committee adjourned till five, and then O'Day's proposition went into the hands of Gorman, Scott, Cooper, Watterson, Morrison, and others.

THE TARIFF REFORMERS WIN. At nine o'clock the platform committee agreed, after a spirited session of four hours. The platform of 1884, as interpreted by the message of President Cleveland, is the solution, and the tariff reformers have won the fight. The only vote against the report is that of Edward Cooper, of New York, who stated that he would be recorded against it, and who is a very much discouraged man at the result of the work of the committee. Messrs. Watterson, Morrison, and other prominent leaders of their side, are jubilant, and say they have gotten everthing they wanted. Mr. Watterson said tonight that he would not take the platform of '84, because it was susceptible of two constructions, and he wanted the democracy committed explicitly, and since the president's message has been made the interpretation of the tariff plank of that platform, there was no longer any doubt as to how the democracy stood on the question of the tariff. The platform, as agreed upon, is a complete surrender to the opposition, and is in every way a thorough indorsement of the president's tariff views, to which the democracy is committed. Senator Gorman says that he agreed to the report for the harmony of the party, which he recognizes as being of chief importance. He will go to work in earnest, and says that now that the party is committed to the policy which he has opposed, he is to become committed to that policy. Mr. Cooper, on being interviewed to-night, said that he could not consistently agree to a principle which he thought would wreck the party and therefore went on record against it. The issue is now squarely drawn, and the president's message becomes indeed the platform of the

THE VICE PRESIDENCY. Gray Makes a Hard Fight, but Thurman

Will Win. ST. Louis, June 6 .- [Special.]-The vice presidency is the reigning topic tonight, and it looks as if the Gray men may possibly be able to stem the Thurman tide. They are wildly enthusiastic, and claim that they will nominate their man tomorrow. There is no doubt but that Senator Voorhees's victory in the convention, in succeeding in staying action today, has had its effect. Though the issue over the question of adjournment until tomorrow was not a strict test between the Thurman and Grav followers, it is so claimed by the latter, and they are

USING THE VICTORY for all it is worth. Had the nomination been made today, after the enthusiasm created by Cleveland's nomination, Thurman would have carried the convention by storm. The Indianians feared this, and Senator Voorhees plunged in for an adjournment, in which Gray's entire strength joined. The Thurman men were undecided, until Governor White, of California, speaking in favor of an adjournment, claimed that no further action should be taken until

On this ground several states, known to be for Thurman, voted for adjournment, which was carried, but the Gray men claim it all, and are yelling themselves hoarse over their favorite tonight. They hold the hotels with brass bands, and there is infinite delight and enthusiasm in their rally. A number of states have and the Indianians have appeared before most of them in behalf of Gray. They are making a strong showing, and are gaining strength. Illinois and Iowa have both pledged their solid delegations to Gray, and the news of this acquisition gave the Gray boom more prominence than it has yet had. Neither of these states, however, committed themselves yesterday during the Thurman enthusiasm in the convention. A number of states remained quiet during the excitement, following California's action in first flying the Thurman colors. Among them was Georgia and Connecticut. On THE GEORGIA DELEGATES the Gray men have made a dead set this evening. Senator Voorhees appeared before the delegation and made such a convincing argument that it is probable a large majority of adopts the president's tariff views as the the delegation will vote for Gray. On an inagent of the party, and calls on congress formal ballot this afternoon it was found that to enact laws to correspond. Daniel Dougherty's Speech in Presenting Cleveland's Name.

St. Louis, June 6 .- [Special.] - Crowds ommenced gathering around the conventien hall by 8 o'clock this morning, and at 10 the entire building was one mass of struggling humanity. The delegates came in, not bodily as on yesterday, but straggling by twos and threes. The steps were not so buoyant. It was a wild night most of them had spent, and the effects had not worn off. There was still the banners, the bandanas, and the music had only a shade of weariness in it, but the delegates carried heavier shades than yesterday.

and Maryland delegation and that Texas and Kentacky delegates would join with them. The Republic tomorrow will print an interview with Chairman Barnum, in which Mr. Barnum says his choice for vice president is, and always has been, Don M. Dickinson. He objects to Thurman because of age, and to Gray because he does not think Gray possesses sufficient ability, and because he (Gray) has no strength outside of his own state, and Mr. Barnum believes it is overestimated there.

C. H. The leaders of the party were, however, early in the hall. Colonel Watterson, after his all night tussel with the senator from Maryland, was among the first to arrive, and he, too, showed the effects of last night's experience, and on his face could be seen CLEAR MARKS OF DEFEAT, mittee on Resolutions.

St. Louis, June 6.—The committee on resolutions resumed its session at 10 o'clock this morning at the Southern hotel. The sub-committee appointed to draft a platform entered the room afterwards looking exceedingly worn by their long session of last night. They reported their inability to agree, the point at issue being the question of reaffirming the tariff plank in the platform of 1884. The sub-committee had listened to earnest appeals last night in favor of and opposed to reaffirmation and could not agree. for Gorman had carried the majority of the platform committee. They favored the platform of 1884, and Watterson knew that defeat stared him in the face. The venerable chairman, Barnum, was also an early comer, and got a cheer when he stepped on the speaker's platform. The silvery-haired and silvery-tongued Daniel Dougherty, of ould not agree.

Mr. Gorman proposed the reaffirmation of the tariff plank in 1884 and a general indorsement of the policy of reduction as indicated in the president's tariff message, and Mr. Watterson opposed any allusion to the 1884 platform, which he deemed equivocal and indirect. Philadelphia, was seen circulating among the delegates on the floor awhile before taking position on the platform among the vicepresidents. Senator Gorman was vigorously applauded on entering, and it could readily be Mr. Gorman addressed the committee for an seen that a majority of the delegates were of Mr. Gorman addressed the committee for an hour on the political expediencies of a moderate tariff policy. While he considered the prospects of democratic success in New York much better than they were four years ago, he regarded Indiana, and he appealed to Senator Turpie to confirm his statement. New Jersey and Connecticut were doubtful, and he would have no hope of his party carrying them upon a tariff for revenue only platform. Mr. Gorman argued in conclusion that the platform of 1834 was one upon which Cleveland was elected; that he accepted the nomination upon it, and has, Mr. Gorman stated, been content to administer the executive office it has ample latitude, as much as the administration itself desires, and it would be impolitic at this time to make it more emphatic. his way of thinking in regard to the platform. When the delegates began to assemble in their places, Virginia anticipated California and isted a bandana. Nevada and West Virginia followed. When Pennsylvania threw up a bandana over its standard there was a general round of applause, and when the first Californian arrived at the seat of the delegation, he hurriedly drew his perspiration-soaked bandana from his pocket and knotted it tightly about the top of his California staff. Our own Georgians, who entered next, did not applaud the Californians, this time to make it more emphatic.

Mr. Watterson responded in an address of about one hour's duration. The platform of four years ago, he said, was a straddle and was so accepted by the committee on resolutions in the convention of 1884. Its advocates had said: "Let us get into power and then we can frame a policy to suit our party's views." The issue of that election, said Mr. Watterson, did not was the wisdom of an equivocal policy. It for among them were friends of ex-Minister Henry R. Jackson, concerning whom the wrathful old Roman had made an uncomplimentary remark. They walked quietly to their seats without applause, and gave no evidence whator that election, said Mr. Watterson, did not prove the wisdom of an equivocal policy. It was not a policy pleasing to our popular American manhood. It came to be stigmatized as a straddle. There was an odium attached to it from which it could not be freed. The campaign, fortunately for the democratic party, by the nomination of Mr. Blaine, had become one of personalities. their only action was to hang a small American flag from their bannerette. The Indianians hung a beaver hat, around which was tied a gray handkerchief, to show that they had not yet deserted the favored son of Indiana. When for the democratic party, by the nomination of Mr. Blaine, had become one of personalities, and that Mr. Cleveland had been elected did not prove the strength of the 1884 platform, and did not justify the faith of the advocates of the straddling policy. In his judgment, there was no statesmanship in the duplication. It would, he thought, be wise to take an agressive stand, as the democratic party had now been committed to the policy of horizontal reduction by President Cleveland's last message and by the utterances of a majority of the democratic party in the house of representatives. From that position, said Mr. Watterson, there can be no retreat, our position is clearly announced. It is known to our opponents and the people. He believed, moreover, that the bold, manly tone of the Clevelard message had a very happy effect. PAT COLLINS WAS ANNOUNCED chairman of the convention, he received a perfect storm of applause. Collins don't possess the blessing of a penetrating voice, such as that of Temporary Chairman White, but he made an excellent officer. When the roll of states was called and the chairman of the Albama delegation arose and announced that his delegation had instructed him to waive the first right to New York, another cheer went up and all eyes were turned to the New York corner of the hall. Daniel Dougherty arose from his place in the delegation, and the moment his courtly form was discovered he was cheered again and again as he made his way up the south aisle, amid the waving of hats, flags, handkerchiefs, bandanas, stovepipes-black, gray and white-all whirled about and above the platform. Mr. Dougherty was ushered up by a dozen enthuiastic hands and received there by a hundred nore which were extended towards him, while cheer followed cheer. It was many minutes before the enthusiasm of the audience subsided enough for him to speak, and when he did commence the conclusion of almost tone of the Clevelard message had a very happy effect.

Utter candor of expression characterized the remarks of both Mr. Watterson and Senator Gorman, and perfect good feeling was maintained throughout. But it soon became evident that their relative positions upon the point at issue would be maintained, and it became quite as clear that a majority of the committee had been impressed with Senator Gorman's candid statement of the political expediency involved in the question.

Throughout the discussion members of the committee listened with eager attention and though the heat of the committee room was almost unsufferable, not a chair was vacant during the long session. The doors were kept carefully locked all the morning, and throngs of prominent gentlemen, among whom was Morrison, of Illinois, waited impatiently in the corridor for any information that could be gleaned of the proceedings from any member of the committee who might appear in the corridor for a momentary breath of fresh air.

At noon the general debate was begun upon the question of reaffirming the platform of 1884, ten minutes to be allowed each state, and the vote to be had at 1:30. The debate, however, was prolonged till after 3 o'clock. By a vote of 25 to 19, the committee agreed to Senator Gorman's proposition to indorse and reiterate the tariff platform of 1884. It is understood there will be no serious division upon other planks in the platform.

The committee reassembled tenight for con-EVERY SENTENCE WAS LUSTILY CHEERED. In his first sentence, as the words rolled out, there was such a musical ring in them, such a pleasant change from the metallic sound of the reading clerks and the previous speakers, that it seemed as if the dulcet tones of a cornet had fallen on their ears. With the hamimering of iron it was the ring and music of an orator. As the first words rose and fell above the state banners and passed on and over the alternates till they reached the farthest wing, one thought of Gladstone and his bell like voice; of Cicoro in the Roman forum; of Demosthenes teaching his voice the strong but sweet murmur of Grecian waves. Then all these thoughts waned away as magnificent sentence after sentence rolled Twenty hours exactly is the time it took to prepare a tariff plank that could be agreed upon for the campaign of 1888. Mr. Watterson told a reporter tought in substance "that we renew our fealty to democratic principles, and reafirm the platform of 1884, and indorse the last annual message of the president, and declare it a correct interpretation of the platform, and approve the efforts of our democratic representasives in congress to secure reduced taxation. In a separate resolution to be offered to the convention tomorrow we commend the Mills bill, urging its passage at an early day."

"Was there anything else, Mr. Watterson?" ventured the reporter to his patient but nearly exhausted victim. "What about silver?"

"Oh, d—d silver!" shouted Mr. Watterson, unable to submit longer and, bursting away from his pursuers, he was gone. out, and burst after burst of applause followed. The first prolonged applause came when the speaker said that New York would present the name of the next president. For just one minute the applause rolled over the house. Then there were flashes of plaudits till the orator declared that New York would pledge their electoral vote to the candidate she would present. Then the convention settled back, like an athlete getting his wind for a final burst. The speaker led up to the climax quickly. He gave only a note of warning before the storm burst. Stopping for an instant before he en-climax of his speech, he raised both hands above his head. This was the signal, for sience fell on the assembled throng. No more impressive scepe could be imagined. The listeners eagerly bent forward to catch every word which should drop from the speaker's lips. Mr. Dougherty, with uplifted hands, glanced quickly over the sea of intense faces as if to catch the full and buoyant inspiration of the moment. He raised his hands a little higher, and stretched his tall figure to its utmost length, and in

STRONG THRILLING TONES said: "I shall present a name which is entwined in the hearts of the people. It is the name of Grover-" He got no further. The yell which met this word seemed to explode, to break with one wild, harmonious, uncontrollable, spontaneous force from every throat in the hall. It came like the first burst of a cyclone, with a power that can only be described as awful. The scene which followed beggars description.

With the yell, every man and woman, too, was on foot. Men acted like lunatics. They sprang to their chairs; hats flew into the air; fans and papers were hurled across the hall. The main floor, every seat of which had been filled when the nominating speech commenced, looked like a field of waving hats and canes and handkerchiefs, thick as a field of corn. The assemblage was filled with enthusiasm, and the opening yell deepened and grew into a continuous roar, which never diminished or ceased, but seemed to increas in a swelling volume of sound till the noise was painful to the ears. The New Yorkers were frantic. One man grabbed the standard of the state and waved it wildly. His example was caught up by other delegations, and the standards of all the states were waving above the hats and handkerchiefs. For forty-eight minutes exactly this applause kept up. It was inspired not only by the mo del speech of Dougherty, for in the midst of the trait appeared to the view of the immense audience of 15,000 democrats. While the cheering was in progress Delegate MacKenzie, of Kentucky, was escorted to the stand to second the nomination, but no one noticed him. He, however, patiently waited, and when order restored he adopted a happy vein upon which to

to the enthusiastic audience, and his figures were received with rounds of applause, Judge Twiggs, of Georgia, in his speech, was frequently applauded. It was an earnest and strong effort, and at its conclusion the audience again cheered wildly. Then, when President Cleveland was unanimously chosen as the democratic nominee, the wild scenes of the nominating speech were again raised, and for many minutes the hall was again a scene of wild enthusiasm. Even men pulled off their coats, threw them in the air, and cheered until it seemed the roof would be blown from the building. The enthusiasm was probably greater than has ever before been displayed at any convention, not excepting the republican one of 1884, which nominated Blaine, or the one of the same year which resulted in the present nominee's entrance into the white house. It was evident,

THE BRARING OF THE GRAY MEN in the convention hall today, that their last ever of their choice for a vice-president, and hopes had been scattered, and the reason of the California headquarters and has been thus Senator Voorhees's anxiety to have the convention adjourn over till tomorrow was said to be because the Indianians desired to make arrangements tonight to withdraw their cacdidate and make the nomination of Allen G. Thurman unanimous tomorrow. However, it is probable that the Indianians will compliment their favorite son with a vote on the first ballot tomorrow. Illinois, and probably two other states, will do the same thing, but after the first two ballots everything will be settled, and the nomination of the old Roman will be made unanimous Thus Cleveland will be allowed his choice in everything except the section of a platform, and even in that his message will be the platform which will be partly indorsed.

> THE DAY'S WORK. The Enthusiasm in Convention Hall-The Story Told.

By Associated Press.
St. Louis, June 6.—The democratic national convention today broke the record for the greatest display of enthusiasm ever witnessed in a similar body. For over twenty consecutive minutes twelve thousand filled the air of the great convention hall with a volume of undiminishing applause, com-parable with nothing on earth, perhaps, save the roar of the falls of Niagara. It followed the utterance of these words:

"I give you a name entwined with victory. nominate Grover Cleveland, of New York. The speaker was Daniel Dougherty, of Tam-many hall. With head proudly erect, every fibre of his features quivering, every nerve of his noble figure tense, the magnificent voice of the orator was alternately thrilling the vast audience and holding them spellbound. When at the climax of his eloquence he named for the first time the man who was uppermost in the thoughts of all, it was needless to utter

Mr. Dougherty paused for a moment to gaze over the hundreds of frantic cheering delegates; at even the more frantic thousands of spectators beyond. High above the forest of heads was waving innumerable red bandanas; hats and canes were being pitched into the air, while the cheering was becoming so terrific that no single enthusiast could hear his screech

OVERPOWERING GENERAL YELL. At this moment, in the mammoth picture of the capitol at Washington covering the wall far above the platform and in plain view of the whole convention, the doors were seen to swing back and the smiling face of President Cleveland beamed out on his admirers, every-body in the hall seemed fairly beside himselt with excitement. The stone bust of the president near the speaker's stand was crowned with a wreath of green, snatched by almost frenzied hands from green, snatched by amost returned names to a among the decorations of the platform. The long poled state banners among the delegates were being whirled wildly in the air, when suddenly the convention, with a mighty about, PRICE FIVE CENTS.

discovered Daniel Dougherty climbing on a chair in the middle of the New Yorkers on the floor. He was waving aloft an American flag. As if moved by a common impulse, the standard bearers of the different states all pressed toward New York, each seeking to reach Mr. Dougherty's emblem with their tall staffs and, toss it to the roof.

HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN RAGLES, ornamenting the railings of the gallery, were being torn off and their outstretched mimic wings, six feet from tip to tip, were flapping with the assistance of the nearest spectators, nen and women alike.

In sheer mercy to the people, Chairman Collins at length interposed, and after repeated efforts, directed their attention to the tall Kentuckian, who stood beside him. This gentleman, Delegate McKenzie, was to second the nomination of Cleveland, and aroused the convention to a renewed outburst almost at first by declaring there was but one demo in the country more popular than Cleveland—the queenly woman he has made his wife. Again the convention was in an uproar, when the speaker gave a brand new title to the leader of the republicans—the "Florentine Mosaic from Maine."

Mr. MacKenzie moved to now suspend the rules and make the nomination of Cleveland absolutely unanimous. But everybody wished to join in seconding Cleveland, and everybody was given alchance. Then the thing was done with one extraordinary hurrah. Other features of the day in convention was the four-cornered struggle between the Thurman men, Gray men, tariff re-formers and the protective tariff element. The Thurman delegates were eager to have the nomination for vice-president made at once, while the enthusiasm was at fever heat. They were reinforced by the tariff reformers, who were incensed at the delay of the committe on platform and eager to administer a rebuke. The Gray men were using Fabian tactics and had able allies in the protectionists. Roswell P. Flower, of New York, and Daniel W. Voorhees, of Indiana, were the opposing leaders, the latter being regarded as the spokesman of Gray, though the outnumbered many times phalanx under Voorhees was making a determined fight contesting every inch in the way that threatened to develop an ugly feeling. Just when things had become particularly squally, Mr. White, of Alabama, in the interest of the old Roman, poured oil on the troubled waters. The postponement asked for by Mr. Voorhees was advocated by Mr. White on broad grounds in a manner as magnan as it was unexpected.

Adjournment was in place. Many left the hall with dark forebodings regarding what might take place in the platform committee before the convention reassembled, but a great majority of delegates fell to discuss on their way out from the hall the exciting details of their own proceedings.

Proceedings in Detail.

The convention gathers slowly this morning, owing probably to the protracted meeting of the platform committee last night and its further conference at nine o'clock today. The national committee and the committee having in charge the seating arrangements of the hall are evidently gallant people, for the ladies are the first to get into the building and are comfortably settled in the boxes and balconies before half a thouand men can be seen in the auditorium. There is a picture sque fintter of fans all over the hall, the pages having thoughtfully distributed them in every seat. This was a happy idea, for the atmosphere of the hall is close, and there is a disposition on the part of visitors in the galleries to imitate the habit of the small boy in the peanut gallery and view the proceedings in their shirt sleeves. convention speculate as to the identity of a new face which appears in the portrait gal-lery on the faceof the east gallery railing. Few people recognize the picture for it is a roughly made painting of Thurman as he looked ten years ago. The portrait was taken from danas boom the old Roman into the vice presidential place on the ticket. There is no motto beneath this portrait, as in case with those of Tilden, Cleveland, Hendricks and

Hancock, which hang beside it. Among the early arrivals at the hall is the delegation of women who are here to insist upon the incorporation of a plank in favor of woman's rights to vote in the platform. These ladies look much fresher than members of the platform committee, with whom they had a protracted discussion, but without convincing the committee. Chief Stenographer Dickin son, who is first to appear on the stage, looks up from his notes at this interesting group, which is seated in one of the boxes just in front of his desk, and appears to be on excelliont of his desk, and appears to be on excel-lent terms with the fair petitioners. A num-ber of newspaper men, like the wise virgins, have come prepared. Anticipating a debate upon the tariff plank of the platform committee's report, they have brought lunches with them and are fortified for the siege.

As the delegates come in there is a good deal of talk about efforts to be made by the silver men to have their views reflected in the platform and as to the chances of some of their representatives getting the floor and participating in the discussion upon this rather delicate question upon the floor of the

In the early hours of the morning while the convention is gathering, but a single red ban-dana can be seen in the hall, and that hangs listlessly from one of the boxes occupied by the women suffragists. But there are thousands of pockets bulging out with Thurman banners ready to be thrown to the convention breeze at the proper moment. The Gray men still hold on to their gray hats, and gray muslin banners are hung on to the end of their canes and um-brellas.

A pretty decoration appears upon the floor of the hall. Just before the hour for convening arrived, this floral shield, four feet high, mad of red and white roses, and bearing across its front a bar of cape jesemines, in which appears the name, "P. A. Collins," and above, the word "Massachusetts." This handsome tribute to the coming permanent chairman of the convention is examined with great interest, as is stands conspicuously elevated at the base of the platform. But there is no cheering as on yesterday, as the delegates file in, not now in delegations, as on the first day, but in little groups and pairs. The Ohio and New York delegates are particularly tardy in getting in, legates are particularly tardy in getting in, and there are groundless rumors in consequence that there is a hitch in the Thurman pro-gramme, which includes the second, after his nomination by Tarpey, of California, by General Powell, of Ohio.

eral Powell, of Ohio.

The first applause of the morning is evoked by the appearance of a Thurman bandana placed upon the banner pole of the Wisconsin delegation at this moment. Temporary Chairman White appears upon the stage and consults with Chairman Barnum of the national committee, at which the applause increases in the local condition of the consults with the stage and soon discout. volume, but is short-lived and soon dies out, leaving the convention in the listless condition

Chairman White, who is handling the silvencessly, waiting for the convention to gather. Mr. Cassidy is evidently known to the convention which applands him feebly. At 10 o'clock not more than half of the delegates have put in an appearance and none of the members of the platform committee have entered the half, and a consultation between Chairman White and Mr. Cassidy as to the advisability of calling the convention to order before the committeemen arrive. There is a disposition to go on with the permanent organization anyhow in order to enable the convention to adjourn finally today, about which there is now beginning to be some doubt. There is a conspicuous absence about which there is now beginning to be doubt. There is a conspicuous absence siting clubs, who have either been disted at the refusal of the convention to them the hall, or me waiting until the moment to make a more theatrical ence before any of them appear. The charhas decided to call the body to order out waiting for the members of the plat-

Mr. T. J. Camobell, of New York, sent up to the desk, so that it might be read, a long preamble and resolutions prepared by himself and signed by a large number of prominent democrats. The resolution declared that the perpetuity of the republic demands the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine in all its length and breadth, and that territorial aggrandisement by foreign powers in America should be discouraged and discountenanced by every means in the power ed by every means in the power untenanced by every means in the power United States government so that it is wise that this republic should maintain ly relations with our sister republics, oc, Central and South America, and with home-ruled powers of America, and that ould extend to them our friendly aid to sain themselves and protect the medical maintain themselves and protect themselves rom the encroachments of foreign powers and

When something like quiet had been restored, Chairman White said:

Mr. White then passed over to Mr. Collins the silver gavel and retired. There was another burst of applause, and when it had subsided Mr. Collins addressed the convention.

Mr. Collins spoke in a voice, which although not great in volume, was sufficiently clear and distinct to enable him to be heard in every portion of the hall. He was frequently interupted by loud applause, his reference to the long and finally successful efforts of the democratic party to obtain control of the reins of government being especially well received by long and finally successful efforts of the demo-cratic party to obtain control of the reins of government being especially well received by the whole assemblage. References to the name of Cleveland provoked enthusiasm whenever they occurred in the chairman's remarks. The gentlemen selected to represent various states as vice-presidents then proceeded to take seats upon the platform while the band played an inspiring air. When Alabama was called, the chairman said his state desired to give way to New York.

As soon as he could be heard, Mr. Dougherty said:

I greet you, my countrymen, with fraternal regards. In your presence I bow to the majesty of the people. The sight itself is inspiring, though sublime. You goome from every state and territory, from every nock and corner of our ocean-bound continent, covering the country. You are about to discharge more than an imperial duty, with the simplest ceremonial. You are representatives of the people and are to choose a magistrate with a power mightler than a monarch, yet checked and controlled by the supreme law of the written constitution. Thus timpressed, I ascend the rostrom to name the nex president of the United States. New York presents him to the convention and pledges her electoral vote. Delegations from thirty-eight states and all territories are assembled without causes or consultation, ready, simultaneously to take up the cry and make the vote unanimous. This administration has rescued the public do main from would-be barons and commorant corporations, faithliess to their obligations and reserved it for free homes, for this and coming generations. There is no pilkering. There are no Jobs under this administration. A public officer is a public trust. Integrity stands guard at every post of our vast empire. While the president has been the medium through which has flowed the undying gratitude of the republic for her soldiers, he has not hesitated to withhold approval from special legislation if the strictest inquiry revealed the want of truth and justice.

Above all, sectional strife, as never before, is at an end, and sixty millions of freemen in the ties of brotherhood, are prosperous and happy.

These are achievements of this administration. Under the same illustrious leader we are ready to meet our political opponents in a high and honorable debate, and stake our triumph on the intelligence, virtue and patriotism of the people, adhering to the constitution, its every line and letter, ever remembering that "powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively, or to the people."

By authority of the democracy of New York, backed by the democracy of the entire unitor, I give you a mane entwined with victory. I nominate GROVER CLEVELAND, OF NEW YORK.

Ar. Bougherty speech was delivered with fine effect, in his best style, and aroused unbounded enthusiasm.

When he mentioned the name of Grover Cleveland or referred to his public acts and utterances, the convention fairly shouted itself hoarse. Delegates mounted chairs, waved their hats, their canes, and handkerchiefs.

Ten thousand spectators joined in the applicates and a band in the east gallery helped along with horns and drums, but their blare and noise could scarcely be heard above the general din.

As Mr. Dougherty finished his impassioned speech, some one in the west gallery tore aside the curtain which had hid the portrait of Cleveland, upon the face of the great picture of the capitol building revealing to the gaze of the convention the well known features of the president. It aroused the enthusiasm of the convention to fever heat for the first time during its proceedings. Mr. Wall was at once filled with the proper in the auditorium, balcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of the rest with the top of the capital builting the top of the rest with the sanditorium, balcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of the capital builting the top of the rest with the sanditorium, balcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of the capital builting the top of the rest with the sanditorium, balcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of the capital builting the sanditorium of the capital builting the san Sorse one on the stage crewned the bust of the president on the left of the chairman with a laurel wreath, which was the signal for even a wilder burst of shouts and cheers than before. Although the full band of sixty pieces was in full blast all this time, not a sound from its trumpets could be heard. The

was reached when the banners of all the states were borne by delegates to the New York standard and draped about it. At this the enthusiasm was unbounded. Spectators and delegates tore the red, white and blue bunting from the pillars and from the face of the balconies and waved these improvised bandanas all over the rall for ten minutes.

This remarkable outburst did not cease until everybody was absolutely exhausted. It was twenty-four minutes before the chair was able to regain control of the convention.

After the storm had at length been quelled James A. McKenzie, of Kentucky, took the stand to second the nomination of Grover Cleveland. There was, he said, within the broad limits of this great land but one more popular democrat than Grover Cleveland, and that was the queenly woman he had made his wife. Mr. McKenzie then eulogized Cleveland's

Mr. McKenzie then eulogized Cleveland's administration in a pleasant manner, which secured for him much applause and laughter.

H. D. D. Twiggs, of Georgia, also seconded Mr. Cleveland's nomination. He said:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: The great state of Georgia, which I have the honor in part to represent on this occasion, is proud to second the nomination of Grover Cleveland—a state which has been conspicuous in its fidelity to the great principles of democracy and economical geormient, under our system, and which have found their highest expression in his splendid and manificent administration. [Applause.]

Gentlemen, of the convention, monopoly has said to the people of the south. "You are poor, build your factories, diversify your industries. Protection has made us opulent, it will make you so likewise." The state of Georgia, with the music of a million spindles, has given back her reply. Lifting alof her proud and untarnished shield on which is inscribed her motto: 'Wisdom, Justice and Moderatson,' she has san'to this awful bribe, "We may be poor, but we are unwilling to grow rich by levying a tribute upon the people." [Applause.]

Gentlemen of the Convention: The twenty-four delegates of Georgia have come to this convention hearing with them but a single commission, and that commission is to cast the vote of the state for that matchless leader, whom our late convention in its platifictim of principles characterized with the firmness of Jackson and the patriotism of Washington. [Cheers.] What is true of Georg a is true of every other demicratic state here represented; and it might be truthfully stated, gentlemen, that this vast and grand assembled of patriots and democrats may be called but a formal convocation assembled together to ratify the action of the sovering which have already spoken. Gentlemen of the o wention, in 1884 the public career of Mr. Cleveland was presented by the great state which proudly claims him. Today, in 1885, his name and family career is only bounded by the choice of every civilized sovereignty upon the face of God's earth. Fellow democrats, hear me for a moment longer. Whence come the fact that from every state—from Maine to California—that there is among the people composing this convention, of over 200 delegates, but one name upon their tongue and that mame is framed in their hearts? The chair, therefore, announced that Grover Cleveland having received was the candidate of the democratic party for the office of president of the United States.

When the nomination of Cleveland was announced by the chairman, another scene of wild enthusiasm occurred in the convention, but the delegates and spectators were too nearly exhausted to sustain so prolonged a scene as that which followed Mr. Dongherty's speech.

Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, moved that Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, moved that the convention take a recess until 10 o'clock tomorrow, as the committee on resolutions would not, he said, report this afternoon, and the convention would have to be here tomorrow morning and the intervening time could be properly used for securing harmony and the success of the democratic party.

Mr. Baughman, of Maryland, favored the motion, and called attention to the fact that a number of the most distinguished members of the convention were absent upon the committee.

Mr. Hensel, of Pennsylvania, said that the committee on resolutions was suberdimate to the convention and could be directed by it. He proposed to move that the committee be instructed to report to this body at a given time. The committee had already been in session nearly twenty-four hours, and if it could not agree within that time it never would agree. If the committee was not ready to bring in one report, let it bring in two.

Mr. Voorhees's motion was defeated.

Mr. Flower, of New York, moved that when the convention took a recess, it be to meet tonight at 8 o'clock.

The motion was defeated—yeas, 387; nays, 430.

Mr. Voorhees then moved that the convention take recess until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. There had been no differences existing in the proceedings of the convention up to this time, but now there was a difference of opinion, and he thought it in the interest of justice and fair play that a recess should be taken.

Mr. White, of California, seconded the motion, stating that he did so, not to prevent the nomination of any candidate, but because the convention must have a platform carefully and deliberately adopted. When the vice-president was nominated it would be hard to hold the convention together. He knew that gentlemen were anxious to raise their voices for the same man be was in favor of, but he thought it better that the recess should be taken.

Before the call of the roll of states on Mr. Voorkees motion was completed, it was evident that it would have a large mention.

Veortice's motion was completed, it was evre-dent that it would have a large majority, and at the suggestion of the chair, the convention, by unanimous consent, agreed to suspend the call and agreed to the motion, and the chair, at 1.50, announced that the convention stood-sdjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The newspapers had announced that the proceedings of the convention would be bulletined by ceedings of the convention would be bulletined by them, and eager throngs surrounded their offices. The news was telegraphed in detail, and when a happy hit was made by one of the orators at the convention, the crawd, who were devouring the news in Washington, would echo the cheers of the "unterrified" at St. Louis. The feeling in the senate was milder than anywhere else. The dignity of that body precluded is from making any noisy demonstrations. The house, on the other hand, presented a scene of the wildest disorder when the bulletins were sent in. Nearly every democratic member had a red bandana, either stuck carelessly in his pocket or both and, Nearly eyery democratic member had a red bandana, either stuck carelessly in his pocket or bosom, or hanging from his desk. These were the gifts of the pages who had bought several hundred. When Mr. Sunset Cox sent a telegram to the clerk's desk to be read, all eyes were at once turned in that direction. The democratic members could scarcely contain themselves until the telegram announcing Cleveland's unanimous nomination was finished. At the conclusion of the reading two or three hundred.

direction. The democratic members could scarcely contain themselves until the telegram announcing Cleveland's unanimous nomination was finished. At the conclusion of the reading two or three hundred red handkerchiefs were waved for lowly, some on umbrelles and canes, and others whirled round and round with the hand. The house was in a perfect delirium of excitement, and the democratic chairman made no attempt togestrain the tidal wave of entusisms. The uproar was so contagious that even the republicans joined in the general yell.

Never, in the history of the government, has such unanimity been seen. Everybody is pleased, and they continue to get happier as the night advances. The assured fact that Thurman will also be on the ticket adds, if possible, to the flow of enthusiasm. The red bandana is worn by every member of the press, and everybody who is taking an interest in democratic success is hastening to p.n on this insignia of democracy. Even the mogramps are happy. Handshakings and the "remark of the governor of North Carolina to the governor of South Carolina" are the order of the day.

Thines were very outer bere yeared and all eves 'arolina" are the order of the day.

Carolina' are the order of the day.

Things were very quiet here yesterday, all eyes being turned to St. Le its. The fact that a great many of the leading representatives and senators have goue to the convention, either as delegates or as visitors, makes it quite difficult to transact business in the two houses of congress. The defeat of Senator Gorman for chairman of the committee on resolutions, who did so much for the democracy in the last election, and who has the respect of the entire party north and south, has created a great deal of dissatisfaction here. His services in the last convention were most valuable, and it is thought by the conservative element of the party that he did oy the conservative element of the party that he did not merit defeat at the hands of the convention. Prominent politicians here think it would be the height of folly to indorse the Mills bill, as no man on earth can tell what the Mills bill will be until it is passed. It may be changed in a hundred paragraphs before it is finally put upon its passage, and for that reason it would be impossible for the convention to know what it is doing when it indorses that measure. Then again it will not do to indorse both the Mills bill and the president's message, for the message recommends no reduction of the internal revenue while the Mills bill and the president's message. All the power of the free traders is being used here and in st. Louis to force the canvention to adopt the bill and the message as the platform, but even such ultra- free traders as Senator Beck seem to realize that it will not do for the convention to lean too strongly to free trade. He said in an interview yesterday at St. Louis, which was published in an evening paper here, that he would be satisfied with the platform of 1834 if some slight modifications were made. He said:

"I don't think there will be any light in the committee on resolutions about the tariff. There will be attended as to the aring the principle."

The control of the committee on resolutions about the tariff. There will be a little squabble as to phrases and words to emphasize, but all will be agreed as to the principle, and the convention will indorse the platform of 1884, and the president's message as interpreting it, and that is all. It is sheer nonsense to talk of indorsing the Mills bill. Why, what is that bill? No body can tell. There is a bill in the house, but it may be torn all to pieces or never passed at all, and we can't fight on anything as uncertain as that. I am not a member of the committee on resolutions, but I have talked to them all, and I give you the substance of what they say to me. I want to make the platform broad enough for all to stand on. That is what I say. Let the thing be broad. We can't afford to crowd anybody off. A NEWSPAPER SCHEME. There is a rumor here tonight, which is well au-thenticated, that within a day or two the Washing-ton Post and the National Republican will cease to ton Post and the National Republican will cease to exist. It is understood that the two papers are to be purchased by a syndicate, haded by Wm. Henry Smith, of Chicago, manager of the associated press. His associates are known to be Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune; Deacon Richard Smith, of the New York Tribune; Deacon Richard Smith, of the New York Tribune; Deacon Richard Smith, of the Cuncinnati Commercial-Gazette, and William Walter Pherps, of New Jersey. The plants of the two papers will be moved into one, and run as an independent republican paper. As yet nothing is known as to what the name of the paper will be. Mr. Hutchins, editor of the Post, will, perhaps, retain some stock in the new concern, but not enough to give him any voice in the management. It is understood also that the syndicate propose to purchase the the Evening Critic and make it an evening edition of the new paper. The Post and Republican have the exclusive franchise of both the associated and united press for five years, and in this manner the new organization will be able to prevent the establishing of a Irival paper, as this manner the new organization will be able to prevent the establishing of a lrival paper, as it would be out of the question to secure the service of either the press associations. It it is understood that Mr. Stilson Hutchins will soon go to Europe, where he will remain for a year or more, after which he will take up his residence in New York. It is said that the syndicate has a great deal of money and will make it a newspaper in all that the word implies. The new paper will make its appearance about next Monday.

CARRY THE NEWS TO FRANKIE, That She Will Not Change Residence Next

Year. WASHINGTON, June 6 .- [Special.]-When the news reached the white house that President Cleveland had been renominated, he was sitting in his private office, consulting with General Farms worth, of Albany, and two other gentlemen from

New York.

The information of his renomination was carried The information of his renomination was carried in by Colonel Lamont, who was in the telegraph office at the time the dispatch was received. It was a dispatch unsigned, only a bulletin from the Western Union. The president read slowly, passed it over to General Farnsworth, and then the general passed it around to the other gentlemen. Sothing was said upon the subject. He look it as a matter of fact, and proceeded to discuss the question which he had been considering when Colonel Lamont handed him the telegram. It was then about half past one o'clock. He made no reference whatever to the action of the convention.

He received the news of his renomination in a He received the news of his renomination in a manner similar to that in which he did his nomination in 1883 for governor. At the time he received that message, he was standing in a crowd in a restaurant in Buffalo, telling a story.

The story was half finished when he opened the telegram. He read it, folded it up and a received with the story, and when he had fin-

Today was the regular reception day in the east room. The president was about half or three-quasters of an hour late in making his appearance down stairs to receive the visitors. So intensely was he engaged in this conversation with General Farnsworth that he seemed to have forgotten both his renomination and the fact that in the lower parlor were assembled some 150 or 200 people, who were waiting to clasp the hand of the president of the United States.

In going down stairs he said to Colonel Jester, who In going down stairs he said to Colonel Jester, who is the chief man at the front door, that he had almost forgotten about this being reception day. The crowd was anxious to see him, as the news had reached the parlors of the action of the convention. As the doors flew open the president walked gracefully into the parlors. The first to congratulate him was a tall North Carolinian, accompanied by his bride, who had been making their first visit to Washington. The president accepted the congratulations, smiling and occasionally looking far off through the south out on the broad Potomac. Nearly all of those present congratulated him in the sterotyped way, to which he bowed a friendly and polite recognition.

At the close of the reception the president went back up stairs, pulled off his Prince Albert coat, and proceeded to wrestle a great question of state.

Later delegations from the senate and house called, one by one, to pay their respects to the new nomines.

ed, one by one, to pay their respects to the new nominee.

A duplicate copy of the telegram which Colonel Lamont had taken to the president was sent into Mrs. Cleveland, who was in her boundoir patiently watching for the latest from St. Louis.

In anticipation of the results, she had arranged with her own fair hands, a mammoth bouquet, carefully selecting the most beautiful flowers from the conservatory, which she carried into the president and placed on his deak. He rose from his seat and thanked her for her thoughtfulters. She congratulated him on the action of the convention, a

The most exciting fact about the white hous The most exciting fact about the white house during the day, either before or after the nomination, was created by Colonel Lamont and his few assistants, including the telegraph operator and the coachman. They eagerly watched the reports which came in over the wire, and the big, silek colored man who stands at the door of the main reception room up stairs were a broad smile and a new recommendation. Clayeland immediately framed eersucker coat. Mrs. Cleveland immediately frame a cablegram, which she sent to her mother Mrs. Folsom, who is now in Paris, conveying to her the news from St. Louis. "HEARTLESS LIES."

Mrs. Cleveland Denounces the Statement of Rev. Mr. Pendleton.

Sr. Louis, June 6.-The Globe-Democra will, tomorrow, publish a letter written by Mrs Cleveland to a lady friend in Worcester, who had forwarded Mrs. Cleveland a copy of the alleged statement of a Worcester clergyman against the character of the president. The letter is as follows character of the president. The letter is as follows:
 "EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTCN, D. C., June 3d.—Mrs. Nicodemus—Dear Madam: I can only say in answer to your letter that every statement made by Rev. Mr. Pendicton in the interview which you send me is basely false, and I pity a man of his calling, who has been made the tool to give circulation to such wicked and heartless lies. I can ask for the women of our country no greater blessing than that their homes and lives may be as happy, and their husbands may be as kind, attentive and considerate, and affectionate, as mine. Very truly,
 "Frances F. Cleveland."

The elergyman ciaims that he was misquoted in his interview. It seems that the statements made by the clergyman were printed a week ago. They were in substance that there was a skeleton in the Cleveland closet, that he was a busive to his wife and a bad man generally.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS. Amendments to the Dinlomatic Bill Adopted

-House Proceedings. WASHINGTON, June 6 .- In the senate im nediately after the reading of the lournal, a brie executive session was held. executive session was held.

Mr. Call's amendment, offered yesterday, increasing the salary of ministers resident at Paraguay and Uruguay to $7,500 was agreed to.

Several other amendments increasing existing statutes were agreed to, and the bill passed and the senate proceeded to the calendar.

All pension bills on the calendar—116—were passed, sixty-four of them being house bills, besides a const terable number of other bills affecting local interests.

terests. The senate at 3:30 adjourned.

In the House. WASHINGTON, June 6 .- After some unimportant business the house went into a committee of the whole on the tariff bill. The clerk-read the pending paragrph, "pickets and palings," which Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, immediately moved to strike

The motion was rejected. The same process was gone through with as regards "lathes and shingles," with little delay and almost no debate on the part of the democrats. The remaining per a raphs of the lumber section, clap-boards, pine or spruce "logs" were passed over down to the provision beginning on life twenty-two, that existing duties shall be levied upon articles on the lumber schedules and where export duties are im-posed on the country from which they are im-rorted.

Mr. Dingley, ci Maine, proposed an amendment continuing the existing duties on the lumber schedules, wherever the exporting country denied our vessels the right to fish and trade and take buit.

Mr. Cox created a diversion by having read a dispatch from St. Louis announcing Cleveland's nomination by acclamation. patch from St. Louis announcing Cleveland's nomination by acclamation.

The democrats burst into applicate and Mr. Tarsney, who had the floor, waved his bandana rapturously. There was a moment of silence on the republican side, followed by a storm of cheers and hand clapping to answer the other side.

A general tariff discussion followed and without action upon the amendment the committee rose.

The house immediately went again into committee of the whole to act upon senate amendments to the Indian appropriation bill. These were generally non-concurred in. The committee rose and the bill was sent to conference.

The house then, at 2:30, adjourned.

COLORED DEMOCRATS.

Organization of a National League—The Administration Indorsed.

St. Louis, June 6.—Nearly a hundred repsentative colored democrats, from more than a ozen states, but chiefly from the north, held a eeting here yesterday afternoon and organized a negro national democratic league. James M. Vena of St, Louis, was elected chairman; T. T, Brown, of Springfield, Ills., secretary, and Herbert A. Clark, of Cincinnati, chairman of the executive committee, to be composed of one member from each state. A committee embracing J. M. Vena, of St. Louis; Charles H. Sheldon, of Indiana; W. T. Scott and T. T. Brown, of Illinois, and A. E. Manning, of Indiana, were appointed to represent the league at the general democratic league, to be held at Baltimore on July 4th. Resolutions were adopted indorsing the administration of President Cleveland, and the league adjourned to meet in Chicago at the call of the chairman. The plan of organization and the purpose of the league is the same as other similar leagues 6' the great parties. f St, Louis, was elected chairman; T. T. Brown

His Physicians Think There is a Chance for His Recovery. WASHINGTON, June 6. General Sheridan's washington, due to determine the washington of the horacouraged at the improvement shown in the general's condition. His friends think that he is on the road to recovery, unless another alarming attack should occur. Hemorrhages are now believed to be the principal source of danger, as they would be likely to cause another attack of heart failure. He is very weak, but it is said that if the present improvement editinues for forty-eight hours be will be strong enough to resist quite a severe attack. While this is the feeling tonight, there still prevails a constant apprehension of another recurrence of the heart trouble, and this, it is stated by the physicians, is always to be feared, even should the general get out of doors again. The heart and liver are incurably disabled, but it is said to be possible for the sick man, by a strict diet and close attention to his health and an avoidance of excitement, to live for years with these organs affected. Any imprudence, however, will immediately render him liable to a recurrence of these attacks. Dr. Lincoln called on the sick man today, at the request of Dr. O'Reilly, and will call again. He made a careful examination of the patient, and said this evening that he found the general very much better in every way than when he called before, and if nothing alarming occurred he might get out again.

June 7, 2a. m.—deneral Sheridan does not seem family and friends are hopeful tonight; and highly courred he might get out again.

June 7, 2s. m.—General Sheridan does not seem o well as earlier in the day. His rest has been freuently disturbed by attacks of coughing, which nereased in frequency as the night wore on.

The New York Park Commissioners Refuse the Request of a Committee. New York, June 6.—When word arrived in this city today that President Cleveland had been nominated, a committee of democrats called on Mayor Hewit and asked permission to fire a salute of one hundred guns in City Hall park in honor of the event. The mayor told them they would have the event. The mayor toll them they would have to get permission from the park commissioners. They went to the park department and saw Commissioner Borde. He refused to give the desired permission. The committee returned to the mayor with this information, but he told them he could do nothing for them. The sainte was not fired.

Mayor Hewitt was asked today what he thought of the renomination of President Cieveland. "I expected it," he replied. "The party could do nothing else,"

"Do you consider the nomination a good one?"
"I will not express an opinion."
When asked what he thought the tariff plank in the platform should be, he also declined to express an opinion, and added that until his term as mayor expired ire intended to take so part in politics. The Election of Bank Officers.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—An alarm of are was rung in from box & in East Macon about half-past four this afternoom. The department made very fine time, and were very soon on the scene. Burning a sewer up is rather a new business to most, perhaps, but this is part of the programme that took place. In the yard of the Bibb Manufacturing company are a number of railroad tracks where the cotton goods are loaded. A locomotive was in the yard at the time, and it is though that parts from it set fire to the "waste house," which is totally destroyed. A large sewer that runs from the building through which, the lint is blown next caught fre, and it was with much difficulty that the department could get at the blaze, but some of the planks were torn up, and water thrown on, which fixed matters right. The blaze and snoke were very large and were the means of attracting quite a crowd from the city.

CINTON, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—The property of the Sixes and Pigeon Roost mining empanies was sold at public outery and purchased by Collector Thos. C. Crenshaw, Jr. has is regarded as one of the most valuable this is regarded as one of the most valuable this is regarded as one of the most valuable in the southern states. One half of the proping the southern states were owned by the Sixes mining company, and the other lots were owned by the Figeon Roost mining company.

The Sixes Mining company stocked theirs at two lundred thousand dollars, and were successfully operating the mine when the war begun. An immense amount of gold has been well-red from this property. It is absolutely estimated from this property and dollars has been operated to any extent since, as the never been operated to any extent since, as the ewires were either dead or scattered all over the United States, and no one had the right to the United States, and no one had the right to work it. Mr. R. W. Hillhouse has had, charge of the property as their agent for the last ten or fifteen years, and has had charge of the property as their agent for the last ten or fifteen years, and has had charge of the property as their agent for the last ten or fifteen years, and has work it. It is astonishing that this valuable property should have lain idle so long, but the stockholders were scattered everywhere and no one seemed to take any interest in it. Everybody is gratified that it has been put upon the market at last and Colonel Crensiaw is to be congrat

MACON'S NEW GAS WORKS. The Consumers' Gas Light Company of

Macon.

Macon, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—This com-Macon, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—This company are certainly pushing their works to completion with a rapidity unusual in the south. Mr. Van Steenbergh, the general manager of the American Water Gas Works Construction company, who is in clarge of the construction of the works for the gas conjary, has now at work 145 men—masons, pipe byes and laborers. The buildings of the company are completed and the machinery all on the ground, with will be in place and ready for the manufacture of gas by July 5, 1883. A large force of masons and aborers are at work on a brick tank sixify feet in diameter by ninety five feet deep, in which will be placed the gasometer or holder in which the gas will be stored ready for delivery to the consumer. This will be completed by July 10th, all the fron work being on the ground. This company will lay usalus on all the principal streets, in all about ten mies, beginning at the works on Spring street, Mains will be last to Mulberry, thence down Multerry to Foorth. Third and Second, and up those streets to Oglehorpe, from Mulberry and New streets to Onange, and on Orange to Georgia avenue to College street, thence on College to streets to Oglethorpe, from Mulberry and New streets to Orange, and on Orange to Georgia arenne, and then up Georgia arenne to College treet, thence on College to Tamasi square, taking in Ash, Sparks, Adams and Im, also Wainut, Cherry, Poplar, Plum, Pine, Ostand Ogiethorpe. The company contemplates extending their mains through Vineville as far as Fo-Nono college. It will be seen from the above that this system will take the principal thoroughers of the city. Mr. Henry Horne, the secretary of the Consumers' Gas Light company, deserves greatered it for establishing this company here, as we are to have gas at $1.50 per thousand feet, as against nearly double this price one year ago.

AN EAST MACON ALARM.

A Sewer and a Waste House Belonging to the Factory Burned Up. Macon, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—An alarm Macon, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—An alarm uftre was rung in from box 62 in East Macon about halfpat four this afternoon. The department made very fine time, and were very soon on the seen. Burning a sewer up is rather a new business lomes, perhaps, but this is part of the programme that took place. In the yard of the Bibb Manufacturing company are a number of railroad tracks where the cotton goods are londed. A locomotive was in the yard at the time, and it is thought that parks from it set fire to the "waste house," which is totally destroyed. A large sewer that runs from the building through which, the lint is blown next aught fire, and it was with much difficultly that the department could get at the blaze, but some of the planks were torn up and water thrown on, which fixed matters right. The blaze and s noke were very large and were the means of attracting quite a crowd from the city.

Burglary in Monticello. MONTICELLO, Ga., June 6 .- [Special.] -A bold burglary was committed in our town lastnight, which was evidently the work of professionals. The which was evidently the work of professionals. The more of Jordan Bros. & Ce. was entered by prizing open the front door. The safe was blown open and the contents rifled. About two hundred and twenty-five dollars was taken. This, to ether with the damage to the safe, makes the loss about three hundred dollars. While the fine clothing and some other goods were distunbed, it is not known that any were taken. An old chicel was found near the hare, but it does not furnish a clue. Two strangers were seen in town yesterday afternoon, whom no one has since seen. It is quite probable they were the cracksmen. Have not been able to get a description of them.

Shot Down By an Officer.

SAYANNAH, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—Peter Brown, alias Golden, a negro, was shot in the groin last night by Policeman Quinn, of the Ocean Steamship company's force. Brown and another negro were stealing brasses from the journals of the Cental's cars. Quinn was detailed to watch for the thieves. He caught two in the act. As he carried Brown away the other one fired five times at him. From jumped off a trestle and attempted to escape when he was shot in the back. Partits who heard the shooting say that twelve shots were fired. The policemm was not injured. Brown is in jail today. He has confessed that he and his pal have been engaged in a systematic robbery. His wound is not considered dangerous. Shot Down By an Officer.

Mad Dogs in Harris. Mad Dogs in Harris.

HAMILTON, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—Two dogs that were supposed to be suffering from rables were killed on the farm of Bill Armstrong. They were bit by a mad dog ten days before they showed my sign of the disease. They would bite at anything that came in reach. Mr. Tom Seat's little boy was attacked by one, and if he had not climbed up a tree that was near he would have teen badly bit, as the dog was a very vicious one. The neighbors all are killing every dog that comes around, whether he shows any signs of madness or not. An sunce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—The Central railroad directors this morning declared a four per cent semi-annual dividend. The earnings of the road for the past six months have been heavy. ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 7, 1888.

The Candidate Is Named. The national democratic convention might very well adjourn this morning. In naming Cleveland the convention has done the real work of the campaign. That action will be strengthened by going through the technicality of nominating a vice-president. It certainly will be strengthened if Mr. Thurman is named, as now seems assured. It may then be further strengthened,

His prestige no less than his courage, and his filed in the office of the clerk of the superior or suft for $1,000 against the Atlanta Street Rai courage no less than his almost omnipotent common sense, make him the sturdiest and safest and best leader either party has had since Abraham Lincoln led the republican party to its first victory.

Dairying in Georgia.

The Albany News and Advertiser has a very interesting article on dairying in Dougherty. Although it has been only a comparatively short time since Jersey cattle introduced in the county, the breed has increased amazingly, and it is supplemented by hundreds of graded cattle which, for all practical purposes, are as good as the

The result of this improvement of the cattle has been a large increase in the butter product of the county. A great many farmers have added to their other interests the business of dairying, and it is a business that is sure, with proper management, to bring large returns. The News and Advertiser says that the possibilities of this new business have only begun to be developed. There are about 350 pounds of country butter sold in Albany every week, and a prominent groceryman gives it as his opinion that not more than one-third as much northern and western butter was sold in Albany in 1887 as there was in 1877. To this the News and Advertiser adds the following pretty little protection sentiment, which we

Every dollar saved to a country is a dollar made, and while this may seem a small business, yet as ittle drops mingle to swell the stream, so will every small, profitable industry increase the volume of rade. The alchemists of old wasted their energies in the foolish effort to convert common substances into gold, but the secret so coveted by them is known to us; here grass and the other products of our fields are coined into money through the simplest method of natural transformation.

The News and Advertiser gives two instances of success in the dairying business that have come under its observation. A few years ago, a farmer of Dougherty, fully pied with his farm, bought his wife a cows. The natural increase of this few cows. The natural increase of this herd has been such that it now produces sixty pounds of golden butter per week, which finds ready sale in Albany. The farmer's wife realizes from $000 to $1,000 on the yearly sale of her butter. The actual outlay, annually, is: $150 for labor and $75 for wheat bran to give bulk to the cooked food. The rest of the feed is raised on the place to supplement the pasturage. The other instance that the News and Advertiser cites is that of a dairy farm not far from the corporate limits of Albany. Here, again, it is the lady of the house that presides over affairs. Six graded Jersey cows constitute the herd, and there is no expenditure for food, everything necessary being raised on the twelve-acre farm. These six graded Jerseys bring in a monthly income of $80, enough to support the family in

All this is very gratifying, and it is still more gratifying to know that the dairying business is developing in all parts of the state, notably in middle Georgia. The county of Putnam, for instance, ships a great many pounds of butter to Atlanta and other markets every month. Mr. B. W. Hunt, of Eatonton, who has one of the most perfectly equipped dairies in the south, with a splendid herd of Jerseys to back it, ships butter to New York, and its grain is so perfect and its flavor so fine that there is a continual demand for it.

Your Uncle Daniel Dougherty was eloquent, as he always is.

THE convention went wild whenever Cleveland's name was mentioned.

THE members of the democratic convention got hold of a lady's red hat in the hall yesterday, and made a foot ball of it. This shows that there was genuine enthusiasm among them.

It seems that there was some perspiring over the platform.

In order to show that the democratic party has kicked the civil service reform numbug into the ditch, we may remark that Brer Morrison, who is a federal office-holder, is one of the big members of the convention and there are dozens of smaller office-holders present as delegates. Let the good work Yesterday at half-past cleven o'clock Mr. John Clay Smith, of this city, appeared before Govzernor Gordon and made a final appeal for the pardon of John M. Cheatham, who was convicted of the offense of murder in Gwinnett county in 1880, and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. Governor Gordon purdoned him. Mr. Smith, who has been working hard for several years to secure this pardon, says that a petition signed by 3,000 citizens of Gwinnett was presented to the governor asking his clemency. It has also been shown that Cheatham was convicted of the crime of murder on the evidence af one John Brewer who since the trial has been proven to be unworthy of belief. der on the evidence af one John Brewer, who since the trial has been proven to be unworthy of belief. Had his true character been known during the trial, it is stated, that he could have been impeached. The jury who convicted Cheatham certify that they dia so on the evidence of Brewer. But for that evidence they might have convicted him of involuntary manslaughter which would have sent him to the penitentiary for three years at the ulmost.

TAMMANY HALL ABLAZE.

Great Damage Done to Its Interior—The Rescue of Relics. Rescue of Relics.

New York, June 6.—About 6:30 o'clock this morning a fire-broke out in Tony Pastor's theater in East Fourteenth street. As the flames gained rapid headway, three alarms and seven or eight special cells were sent out and a large number of engines and firemen summoned quickly to the spot. The theater is in the Tammany hall building and adjoins the Academy of Music, which was at one time seriously threatened by the flames. By dunt of hard work, however, the firemen succeeded in preventing this, and at 8:45 o'clock the fire was got under control.

It is Cleveland that is stronger than party or platform, and in naming Cleveland the work of the campaign is cut out in spite of party or platform. There has never been a day since The Constitution urged Governor Cleveland as the best man form.

take place carly in the fall. Mr. Chanler and his bids will go at once to Paris, and there our brilliant story writer and poet will continue ber literary work. She reads French, and after a short experience with the idioms will doubtless write French with a facile pen. I for one will predict French with a facile pen. I for one will predict French write from her pen in less than six months. In addition to her literary work, she will occupy herself at the casel, Mr. Chanler being particularly anxious to have her study extended a french master. I know the first thing that many girls will ask, is Mr. Chanler bandsome? Well, he is a very good looking gentleman, and makes a good impression upon every one who meets him. But sad are Amelle Rives's firends at the thought of her going away across the write, wide sea to live in a foreign land. The New York Sun of yesterday has this to say: The engagement is reported of Miss Amele Rives, the young society authoress, who has wen notoriety if not celebrity by her writings, to a son of the late Mr. Winthrop chandler, of this city. Mr. Claudier married Miss Emily ward, a grand-daughter of the late William B. Astor, so that his son is one of the heirs of a large estate. Miss kives's genius will therefore no longer have the spur that large returns for her literary eforts have given, and she may possibly be content to withdraw from the field and settle down to the enjoyment of home life.

The Richmond Times today: The aunouncement of the proposed marriage of Miss Amelia Rives, and Mr. Arethbald Chandler leaves nothing to mar the prospect of a romantic destiny, except the somewhat unpoetic name of the happy man. But the sens: of sentiment rannot be doubted in so talented a young person as Miss Rives, and she certainly ought to know more about it than anybody elsa, except some hundreds of men who envy the gay bridegroom.

Commencement Exercises of the

Held Yesterday at Loyd Street Methodis Church-Striking Extracts From Graduating Speeches.

The commencement of the Gammon school The Commencement of the Gammen school of technology was held at 10 o'clock yesterday in the Lloyd-street Methodist church, which was comfortably filled. On the platform were Dr. R. S. Rust, of Cneinnati; Bishop Gaines, Dr. A. G. Haygood, Dr. Mitchell, President W. P. Thirkield, President Thayer and Frofessor Crogman, of Clark university, Mrs. E. H. Gammen, the wife of the patron, and many prominent indictors of the rily. ron, and many prominent ministers of the city. The music was of a high order. It was given un-der the direction of that gifted musical instructor, Miss Anna Colburn, by the students of Cark uni-versity. The d. 6: by Misses-Maria Clay and Hattie

Bearsley was well rendered:

The subjects treated in the graduating orations were practical. The thought, diction, rhetoric, and elocution were spoken of by many competent judges as excellent. The graduating class represents five states and different courch organizations. The exercises indicated the power which this school is already exercising—throughout the south. The first speaker was George W. Arnold, A. B., of Roopville. His subject was: "The Power of the Home, the School and the Pulpit." Of all renowned institutions of the past and present, there are none-which contribute so much toward man's development as the home, the school and the pulpit. In the home are laid the foundation stones of all that is good any pure, both in civilization and religion.

all trains good any pure, work in convergence.

Most all the great men of every age owe their culture largely to the school. In every scheme of culture industrial education has a place.

Every reform has been marked by its great Christian army lead on by Christian ministers. The ministry, as ao other institution, reaches all conditions of men. He who goes into the home and with the word of life raises the thoughts of men and centers their affect ons on the highest conceivable objects, exercises a greater influence than any king or ambitious ruler.

P. W. Walls, Memphis, Tenn, spoke upon "Who are our Heroes," "They are our heroes who have always stood on the side of the eternal principles of right and have dared to stand there though they have had to stand alone." The speaker mentioned the hetoes of the early days of Christianity, then Wycliffe, Savahalla, Calvin, Luther and others of the reformation. reformation.

M. Jones, Marion, Ala., spoke upon "The Evils intemperance." There was appropriate variety in the fear of the Lord, and a sense of accountability, paralyses the power of conscience, hardens the heart, and makes men who were a little lower than the angels ferocious animals."

"Thi-devil is universal. It corrupts the body. Intemperance affects the soul.

"We must make men strong enough to resist it or move it from them. This can be done by cultivating public sentiment, by hurling fire brands from the rostrum and pulpir against the traffic, by a manly stand of the press, by teaching its effects in our schools, by encouraging and giving woman her right place in this movement."

J. A. Lindsay's subject was "The Church of God."

"The church of God towering up through time into eternity, the most powerful and influential figure. She knows nothing about Presbyterianism, Calvinism, Methodism, as fought about among men. The church is a divine institution, fully framed together with Jesus Christ as the foundation stone."

A. S. Williams of Vickshure, Miss. eags a setting the contract of the coundation stone."

ith Jesus Christ as the foundation stone."

A. S. Williams, of Vicksburg, Miss, gave a stirng oration on "The Preacher." The Christian ng oration on "The Preacher." The Christian inisity is at once the most simple and unique in litution in the world. It is a divine vocation. The ree elements, conscience, fruits, and the voice of e church go to prove the call.

The man who is converted, who is called by God and set apart by the people, who has qualified him-self both mentally and spiritualy, who has conse-crated his beart, soul, mind, and strength entirely crated his heart, soul, mind, and strength entirely to the service of God, who has a blameloss character, who is a man of prayer, who knows his duty and does it, who is conscious of his restonsibility in preaching the word of hise, who feeds and watches the flock of Christ, and who knows the value of immortal souls, such a man is a minister after the New Testament order and a true and worthy preacher for the Christian church."

E. T. Fleming, of Athens, gave one of the best orations of the day on "The Elevation and Christianization of the Negro." He spoke with feeling and power.

"While proud of the ecord of my race, the greatest problem before us is our own education. The isetters of passion and appetite fasten closer around our intellect and will than ever did the shackles about our limbs. I appear to you for individual effort. We must add a holy life to our deep religious. celings. As a race, we must rise above the condi-ion of illiterate hirelings to an educated Christian manhood:

E. T. Coit of Lynchburg, S. C., gave a clear and impressive oration on "Elements of True Manhood" "Manhood is the chief source of power and success. It does not depend upon complexion or condition. No other element in true manhood is as emobling as conscience and ic who wishes to wear the crown of victory must obey its mandates, should comprehend and feel as a reality that success depends upon a fixed purpose. Self-sacrifice enters into every virtue, and virtue never reaches perfection without its largest measure. When Christ was lifted upon the cross he gave a new meaning to self-sacrifice.

J. P. Wragg, of Charleston, S. C., spoke on "The Plan of Salvation." He started out well, but seemed to have been under a great mental and physical

Plan of Salvation." He started out well, but seemed to have been under a great mental and physical strain, forgot and left the platform, but afterwards showed ceurage in returning and finishing his oration in good siyle. "Man was the crowning work of creation. Sin brought his destruction. Would God save him? Heaven gave the reply the Lambelain from the foundation of the world would come. Christ died for all. God manufacted When." come. Christ died for all. God manifested Himself slain from the foundation of the world would come. Christ died for all. God manifested Himself through His only Son."

While there were other strong and eloquent orations, that of P. O'Connell, of Natchez, Miss., was the best. He spoke of "The Character of Christ." His voice was rich and musical, and his thought and diction were line. No summary can give any idea of the oration. Nearly every sentence was a polished gem. A few of the last will give some idea of their power. "Christ's Hie and character were full of strange paradoxes; his folly was the wisdom of the Eterual; his strength was in his weakness, his glory in his shame. The cross was his throne, and from it he exercises a dominion more powerful and universal than king or emperor ever exercised; the thorn crown has become the diadem of nations, the reed scepter has become the diadem of nations, the reed scepter has become the tid and physical and intellectual life before he came but it find no heart. O, heart of Christi throb on in holiness and love to God and man, til all hearts beat in unison with thine own, till all are one in thee!"

After the orations, the degree of B. D. was conferred upon G. W. Arnold, and a diploma for the completion of the thoological course was presented to each of the others. Drs. Rust and Hartzell made happy speeches, referring to Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Gammon, who had founded the school, and to others whose labors had made such a day possible. President Thirkelid, whose extraordinary executive ability showed in the perfectness of all the arrangements, is to be congratuated on this crowning day of the successful year's work of the Gammon school.

Justification. "I am not a Christian, but I am not against

Dr. Pentecost said last night that he heard a man make that remark. He continued: "There can be no half way ground. A man must believe in Jesus Christ before he can be justified before the law and be at peace with God. This is the only way to be saved. The central idea of the sermon was the

be at peace with God. This is the only way to be saved. The central idea of the sera on was the precious blood of Christ.

Man is retated to God in two ways. He bears a personal relation to Him and he bears another relation to Him as the moral governor of the universe. Forgiveness is one thing. Justification is another thing. The forgiveness of a man by God simply clears him of personal offense against God. But justification of a man clears him of offense against the law of God. Forgiveness comes first, then comes justification which is followed by peace with God. This state of affairs is brought about by the death of Christ and settled by his precious blood.

Many poople seem to think that forgiveness only is necessary to salvation. Not so, Forgiveness is but one step. A man must be justified of God. The wages of sin is death. God has pronounced sentence of death against men. They must be justified before they can be at peace with God through the blood of Christ. This is the only way in which a man can become reconciled to God, and without such preconciliation there can be no hope of salvation.

God."

The sermon abounded in close reasoning in capital, illustration, and seemed to impress the large congregation deeply.

The resurrection.

Tonight Doctor Pentecost will preach on the resurrection, a theme of the greatest interest. It is expected that the church will be crowded. Doctor Pentecost will handle this great subject in a masterly manner.

Sam Jones in Cedartown.

Sam Jones in Cedartown.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—Our city is to have Rev, Sam P. Jones to preach next Saturday evening and Sunday, and we will have him earlier and hold him longer, if we can. The beautiful grove in "East park" will be prepared and seated for the occasion, for thousands will be out to hear him. Rev. Mr. Stewart, of Cleveland, Tenm., is also expected. Cedartown is getting large enough for anything. It is the most healthful, prosperous and growing young city in Georgie and in the richest mineral and finest farming country in the south.

'AN IMPORTANT LETTER FROM MR. THERN. At the time when Mayor Hewitt attacked ex-Governor Hoadly for what he said at the banquet in Brooklyn, on the anniversary of Governor Tilden's birthday, Mr. Julius L. Brown was in New York on his way to Enzil. Fealing that Mr. Hoadly was quite in the right in the controversy, he wrote him a note saying that the following letter, which, he thought, would largely confirm Mr. Hoadly's view, was in his poscession, but unfortunately in his safe at Atlanta, of which he only poscessed the combination, and as he was about to sail for Brazil he could not furnish the letter itself until May. Mr. Hoadly has received it from Mr. Brown, and the original is in his possession. He is anxious that it should be presented to the public through the columns of the World. It is given herewith, and it may be remarked that in addition to putting a qu'etus upon Mr. Hewitt it reveals a side of Mr. Tilden's character which it is pleasant just now to

Tilden's character which it is pleasant just now to contemplate:

New York, August 23, 1878.—My Dear Sir: I am in town for today and take the occasion to tell you how much I am gratified and obliged by your two letters and the kind sentiments they express. I remember in the first letter you strongly desired that the truth in respect to my position on the electoral bill should become public. I was quite aware that my polition on that subject had been greatly misunderstood and misrepresented. My attention had been specifically called to those falsifications by a letter from a private friend in the south many months ago, tuil felt great reluctance to do anything for my own vindication which might accidentally operate to wound any of our friends who had acted in good ratch and with patriotic purposes in a policy which had led to a disaster. Events which I had no agency in producing have at last brought about the disclosure. The accidental contriversy that led to it began about the time your last letter was received, and has culminated in the letter of Mr Marble, which contains the telegraphic correspondence on the subject, and a narration of the most material facts in the interview of January 14, 1837, when I acquired my first information in regard to the electoral bill. These are all that concern me in the very able discussion of the subject by Mr. Marble, which he has conducted in his own way. I asked my secretary to set d you a few copies of the newspaner containing the letter. I will ask Mr. Marble to sead you more when it is printed in a pamphlet form.

In respect to your suggestions of the occasion.

In respect to your suggestions of the occasion on which I shall visit your state. I have to say that I have declined so many invitations to lecture or to appear on occasions of a similar nature that it will not now be possible for me to deviate from my practice on that subject, even if it accorded with my tastes to do so. I have long had a desire to visit several parts of the south, and about no doubt feel sure of doing so at no distant time if I had in all respects the reedom of a private citizen, and may oo so as it is.

all respects the freedom of a private citizen, and may co so as it is.

I should be glad to hear from you any time you may feel an imputuse to write me, and I like the frankness with which you express your sentiments with the attractive artior of youth.

Do me the favor to present my best regards to your father, of whose patriotic and arduous efforts in Florida, at the cost of health and comfort, I am well advised, and accept them for yourself. With high esteem, very truly yours,

Julius L. Brown.

Leave Their Home in Douglas County and are Arrested in Chattanooga. Last Monday two girls passed through At-Last Monday two girls passed through Atlanta, via the Western and Atlantic road, for Chattanoga. It was learned from the conductor that they boarfed the train at Villa Rica, and their actions had caused a number of people to suspect that they were runaways. They are described as red-headed, with large noses and prominent teeth, and gave their names as Etmand Vincle Smith, "We are sisters," explained one of them at the carshed, "and we are going home to Chattanooga. We have been to see our kinfolks in Villa Rica."

Yesterday morning an old gentleman, giving mis name as U. J. Hardin, of Douglas county, called at police headquarters.

"My two oldest daughters left home Saturday night." said he. "My home is close to Porter postoffice, about fourteen miles from Villa Rica. If my daughters have been through here I thought you could help me find them and get them back home."

The description given of the two girls tallied exactly with that of the two whose actions had excited suspicion at the car shed on Monday.

A telegram was sent to the chief of police in Chattanooga, giving a desoription of the girls and directing that they be arrested if found.

Last night the answer came from Chattanooga: "Have one of the women here, and the other is in Trenton. Upon what charges shall I hold them?"
Trenton is a small town on the Tennessee river, not far from Chattanooga. The telegram was not answered last night. It is understood that the old gentleman is in needy circumstances, and help will be needed to have the daughters brought home. Another consideration is that both daughters are of age. "They had no special reason for leaving home."

Another consideration is that both daughters are of age,
"They had no special reason for leaving home," said the father yesterday. "They had a little money from having raised a crop of their own, and just wanted to see the world. They are good girls, and I think they have seen enough of the world by now and will come home if they are found."

MURDER IN BROOKS. George West, a White Man, Jailed for Murder.

Quitman, Ga., June 6.—[Special.]—George West, a young white man, struck and shot Westly Johnson, a negro man, yesterday, and killed him. The parties live about six miles west of this place. West claims that he acted in self-defense, but the evidence at the coroner's inquest made a case of murder, and such was the verdict of the jury. It seems that Westly Johnson was enting his breakfast at Mrs. Newsome's when West came up and told him that he owed him for some clothes and that he must leave Mrs. Newsome's and come and work it out with him. To this Johnson replied that he would make the money and pay the debt.

Thereupon West commenced to curse him, and words having passed West struck him with an iron rod and crushed his skull and almost simultaneously commenced to fire upon him with a pistol. Either wound would probably have produced death. Johnson died soon thereafter.

The strange part of the matter was that West went to Quitman to get Sheriff McNeil to go with him to hold an inquest, and at said inquest a verdict rendered charging him with murder caused his incarceration. Public sentiment is decidedly against West.

McIons are going forward rapidly. The crop will prove to be a fair one, and the prospects are that the growers will make money.

THE E. B. A. PICNIC.

The First piculc given by the Emerald Benchiclal Association, at Vinings station, or yesterday, was an immense success. It was given for the benefit of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, and a good round sum was netted for that worthy institution. The crowd in attendance was large, the day was delightful, the music and dancing were enjoyed, and, altogether, the occasion was one which will be long remembered, and its management reflected credit on the gentlemen in charge.

In the afternoon Mr. W. E. Smith, president of the Emerald Beneficial Association, in behalf of the association and of the congregation of Saints Peter and Paul Church, presented Rev. Father McMahon, the pastor, with a handsome gold-headed cane. A vote was then taken as to the most popular young lady on the ground, Miss Lizzie Pfalzer received the largest number of votes, and was presented with an exquisite fan.

The committee of arrangements, which consisted of Messrs, G. S. Doyle, A. L. Deibl, Thomas Kane, Joseph Lambert, John McEnerry and President Smith, did all in their power for the enjoyment of those who attended, and to them much of the suecess of the picnic is due.

Convicted in the United States Court Yester-In the United States circuit court yesterday W. W. Landers was convicted of sending letters through the mail with intent to defraul and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and to serve five months in jail. The firm of Bagley & Landers began business at Big Creek in 1883. They sold watchey clocks, jewelry, medicines and seed. In the month of April, 1883 a New York nurseryman got a letter signed "W. A. Bagley, per W. W. L." in which it was stated that in the month of March an order inclosing $3.55 had been forwarded for plants, but they had not been received. He closed the letter by saying that because of the good standing of the house he could hardly believe that they would do wrong, and asked the house to send a duplicate of the order "and if both packages come, I will remit for the extra one."

Letters of this kind were sent to seed firms all over the land, and some of these firms forwarded duplicates of orders supposed to have been lest. The swindling firm were arrested in due time. Bagley's case was dismissed last fall for want of evidence.

This corporation is the largest of the kind ever organized in Georgia, and one of the largest and strongest in the United States. Its stockholders and directors are among the best and strongest business men of our state, as will be readily seen by anyone who takes the trouble to read over the list and make any inquiry into their business standing.

The business of the company is to procure money for borrowers on leaf estate, by indorsing and guaranteeing the note of the borrower to the lender, for which they charge a commission. The ment can be found than the papers guaranteed by this company. The successful organization of so large and important an enterprise as this is an im-portant event, for it is not a local company. Though much of the stock is owned in Atlanta, most of it being scattered through a large section of the best part of our state.

A SHREWD SWINDLER

Convicted in the United States Court Yester-

In the United States circuit court yesterday W. W. Landers was convicted of sending letters through the mail with intent to defraud and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and to serve five months in jail. The firm of Bagley & Landers began business at Big Creek in 1883. They sold watches, clocks, jewelry, medicines and seed. In the month of April, 1883 a New York nurseryman got a letter signed "W. A. Bagley, per W. W. L.," in which it was stated that in the month of March anorder inclosing $3.55 had been forwarded for plants, but they had not been received. He closed the letter by saying that because of the good standing of the house he could hardly believe that they would do wrong, and asked the house to send a duplicate of the order "and if both backages come, I will remit for the extra one."

Letters of this kind were sent to seed firms all over the land, and some of these firms forwarded duplicates of orders surposed to have been lost.

The swindling irm were arrested in due time. Bagley's case was dismissed last fall for want of evidence.

Canadian Catarrh Cure Co.:

Gantlemen—My wife was a great sufferer with Catarrh for over two years. She has been a little troubled ever since she was a child with the disease. A bout two years ago we were in Mississippi, and while there she was taken down with catarrhal fewer; we had three of the best physicians we could get. They broke the fewer and left her the worst case of catarrh of the head I ever saw. Her nose run profusely, and for a year! despaired of her ever getting well. I tried several doctors and they could not eure her, and used every catarrh remedy! could not eure her, and used every catarrh remedy! could not eure her, and used every catarrh remedy! could not eure her, and used every catarrh remedy! could not eure her, and used every catarrh remedy! could not eure her. and used every catarrh remedy! could not heave of! I spent over $50 the past year for remedies, and all to no could hardly remain where she was. I offered $1,000 to any doctor who would eure her (and that would have left us homeless), but I would not have cared for that if she could only be cured. We saw an advertisement in the Atlanta Constitution of "Canadian Catarrh Care," and thought we would try it, and went to your office, when you gave my wife a small sample bottle of your remedy, and told us to come and get a large bottle when that was out. I bought the large bottle, and before the had used all of the bottle she was entirely well, and her health fully restored, and now does more work than any womant know. She used the medicine over six months ago, and there has not been the slightest return or the disease. I hope everybody that has catarrh may find you and be cured. I am your wenderful cure. Yours truly.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The new Reading loan divided the attention of the street today and the revided the attention of the street today and the result was an intensely dull market, with fluctuations confined to the smallest limits and with transactions entirely uninteresting. The Reading loan was not made up, the plea of the bears today being that the price was altogether too low for four per cent bonds with security back of it which this has, but the general opinion seemed to be that as the public has not as yet had an opportunity to have its say as to the value of the bonds that objection is likely to be very quickly removed. That stock was comparatively stargant today, there leing gains second to be very quickly femoved. That stock was cond to atively stagnant today, there leing gains second to St. Paul in point of activity, while it was traded in throughout the entire day within a range of only $\per$ per cent. It was not alone in this respect, how-ever, for not one of the usually active list fluctuated as much as I per cent, the only stockr of which that (c) lid be said being Pullman and Pacific Mail, both of which were dull and not specially interest-ing. First prices were steady, but London sold a small amount of stock and declines were established small amount of stock and declined over a few stocks, ranging up to ½ per cent, with but little movement. The market closed intensely dull at about first prices—as compared with last

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Features of the Speculative movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, June 6-Wheat had a somewhat checkered course today, but in its upward way. The combination, which, having distributed their holdings so as to put an end to the much talked about deal in any one future, there was a better felling here and elsewhere. At the opening this morning all futures were just 1/2 higher than the close last night. Advices favored the bull side. Some of the local bulls vices favored the bull side. Some of the local bulls began buying boldly, and July and August went up together to 85%, or about ic higher than last night. Realizing by scalpers and tailers eased prices a point or two, I ut later it was discovered that the figures from Missouri showing the degrease of the condi-tion for the month from 77 to 64 were not official, and on this July went back to 85%@85% and August to 85%c. December had sold up to 87c early and eased off to 86%c. Twenty minutes before the close of the regular session news of fav rable exports caused a rally, and July again sold at 85%c, closing caused a raily, and July again sold at 85%c, closing at 85%c.

When it was discovered that the estimate of 600 cars of corn for today was beaten by actual receipts of 762 cars, of course prices opened lower. The principal trading was in July and August. July started at 51%, 100 more the close; sold down 51%c, then up to 55%c—last night's price, and closed at 54%c.

There was a firmer feeling in the cats market.

There was a firmer feeling in the oats market, Late in the day the market became very quiet. July sold at 33½@233½c and closed at 33½@33½c.

A fairly active speculative trade was reported in hog products, and prices ruled a shade higher. In hog products, and prices ruled a shade higher. In mess pork the opening sales were made at 50 advance, and other slight improvements were gained temporarily. Later an easier feeling prevailed, and prices receded 7½@10c, and the market closed quiet. July sold at $i4.17½@514.20, closing at the first figures. In lard much interest was manifested, and trading was quite active. July opened at $7.7½, declined to $.67½, advanced to $.72½, where it closed. Short ribs advanced 5@7½c carly in the day, but a Short ribs advanced 5@71/c early in the day, but a weaker feeling prevailed later, and prices declined weaker reening prevailed after, and prices declined again to hisde figures and closed quiet. July sold at 7.70@7.75 and closed steady at 7.75.

GENUINE JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT.

The Best Nutritive Tonic

Impaired Digestion, Malnutrition in Convalescence, Pulmonary and Throat Diseases. A SOVEREIGN REMEDY For the Weak and Debilitated. Indorsed by all Physicians throughout the Civilized World.

PROF. PIETRA SANTA. OF PARIS.
the world renowned specialist on pulmonary diseases, in his work published in Paris, speaks of the JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT as follows:
"I can highly recommend this pleasant remedy in restoring weakened digestion. As a large number of patients lack the necessary power to digest solid food, and would, through the use of stimulants, be merely excited and weakened, therefore I regard it of immense value to the Practitioner to bring to his aid a pleasant remedy like the GENUINE JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT, which will act not only as a tonic but as a nutritive as well, and which ises exciting than wine as a stimulant.

JOHANN HOFF, BERLIN, PARIS, VIENNA. New York, No. 6 Barclay St.

Eatertainments are provided by the Chautanda grounds aftertainments are provided by the Chautanda grounds. Eatertainments are provided and night, which will give a guarantee of good attendance at dinner and supper. It is believed that the crowd will average more than 2,000 at day the entire two months, and the distance from Atlanta makes it certain that most of the visitors will remain to a late hour.

In selling this privilege the Chautuaqua directors demand that the charge for a single meal shall not exceed fifty cents, and that this shall be a wholesome and generous meal, such as is served for fifty cents at city restaurants. The proprietor, however, may sell dishes by the card at such prices as he pleases, providing, however, that orders for single meals at fifty cents shall have precedence. The restaurant will be kept open on Sunday. For further particulars address John R. Wilkinson, secretary.

Surveying Chautauqua Lake.

Mr. DeWitt, civil engineer, went up to Cha-uqua yesterday afternoon and will at once survey the ground for the lake.

The Chautauqua lake will be over 1,400 feet long (nearly three times the length of lake Abana in Grant park) and about 400 feet wide. It will be winding in its course and not more than four feet Grant park) and about 400 feet wide. It will be winding in its course and not more than four feet deep at the deep st part.

The enterprise of the Chautauqua managers is shown in this: the two branches that supply the lake are hardly sufficient to keep the water fresh and pure. A steam pump will be located at Sweetwater creek, foure spring water) a mile and a quarter away, and a four insh pipe laid to the lake. A solid stream of 16 cubic inches of water will be forced through 7,000 feet of pipe and poured into the lake a torrent. Part of this water will be diverted to the reservoir that supplies the fountains and bulldings. The pipe will discharge 550,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours, and the lake will be kept fresh and clear and pure.

There will be four islands in the lake, which will be lit by electric lights or bonfires at night. A pretty effect will be produced by a fountain on one of the islands, the water of which will play over colored incandescent electric globes.

A fleet of twenty boats will be put on the lake at once, under charge of competent teachers and every sort of rowing, sculling and handling of a boat will be taught. There is no exercise so healthful or plensing as boating. At the southern end of the lake will be a swimming pool, boat houses, and bathing suits for rent. A swimming master will teach the boyt and girls or ladies the necessary art of swimling.

The lake will be a great feature at Chautauqua and Committee. The peculiar purifying and building up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla make it the very sest medicine to take at this season.

Weary and Worn.
When the tired factory operative, the weary ut-door laborer, the overtasked bookkeeper or put-door laborer, the overtasked bookkeeper or ilerk seeks a medical recompense for expenditure of bodily force, where shall he find it? Could the recorded experience of thousands of workers be voiced, the verdict would be that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters renews failing strength, stimulates the jaded mental powers to fresh activity, and relaxes undue nervous tension as nothing else does. Digestion, a regular habit of body, appetite and sleep are promoted by it, and it is an admirable auxiliary in the recovery of health by convalescents. A fastidious stomach is not offended by it, and to bersons of both sexes in delicate health who eccasionally feel the need of an efficient tonic, the whole range of the pharmacopaia and the catalogue of proprietary medicines does not present a more useful, safer or more decisive one. It is also incomparable for fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles. In General Debility, Emaciation

Consumption, and Wasting in Children, Scott's Emulsion of Fure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophospites, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system, and builds up the body. Please tead: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man hom physicians artimes gave up home. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, aimed fiesh and strength, and from all appearances in life will be prolonged many years." John Sy 1722. Hospital Steward, Norganza, Pa.

The peculiar purifying and building up

The peculiar purifying and building up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla make it the very best medicine to take at this season.

Weary and Worn.

When the tired factory operative, the weary suddoor laborer, the overtasked bookkeeper or lerk seeks a medical recompense for expenditure of bodily force, where shall he find it? Could the recorded experience of thousands of workers be voiced, the verdict would be that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters renews failing irength, stimulates the jaded mental powers to fresh activity, and relaxes undue nervous tension as nothing else does. Digestion, a regular habit of body, appetite and sleep are promoted by it, and it is an admirable auxiliary in the recovery of health by convalescents. A fastidious stomach is not offended by it, and to bersons of both sexes in delicate health who occasionally feel the need of an efficient tonic, the whole range of the pharmacopeus and the tatalogue of proprietary medicines does not present a more useful, safer or more decisive one. It is also incomparable for fever and ague, rheumatism and kidney troubles.

In General Debility, Emaciation cott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver Oil with Rypophospites, is a most valuable food and medi-tine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system, and builds up the body. Please feed: "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man shom physicians artimes gave up home. Since he began using the Emulsion his Cough has ceased, aimed fiesh and strength, and from all appearances histe will be prolonged many years."—JOHN Sy MEDICAL.

Leading Men From Various Parts of the State Examine the Cold Storage Process.

Yesterday afternoon by invitation of Colonel W. A. Hemphill and Mr. Martin Amorous, a large number of the directors and stockholders of the Georgia Security and Investment com-pany visited the Cold Storage office and closely examined the process. A Constitution representative was on hand, as he always is, desirous to know what these gentlemen thought of cold storage, as it is a question of much inter-

THE GRAY BOOM FALLS AWAY.

The Platform Adopted by the .Convention.

CREAT ENTHUSIASM EVERYWHERE.

St. Louis, June 7 .- [Special.]-It is over, and with Cleveland, Thurman and the president's message, the democracy appeals to the

Whatever division has existed before is healed by the work of today, and the enthusiasm of the convention must be the rallying cry of the democracy. A noticeable feature of the day's proceedings has been the unity of the factions. Senator Gorman and others who were with him have accepted the situation, and while holding that the convention has taken too extreme a stand on the tariff, yield gracefully to the work of the majority, and tall in line with the new issu.e

ONE MAN DISSATISFIED. Edward Cooper, of New York, is emphatic in his declaration that the convention has acted unwisely, and held out to the last in his disapproval of the report of the committee. He will return to New York and go to work for the party, however, and says that Cleveland's personality will carry the state, though he thinks it would be exceedingly doubtful to the democracy if the issue was strictly on the tariff. Good democrats will yield their opinion and adopt the policy of the party through-

The proceedings of the platform committee show that the states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Louisiana and others held out against Watterson's effort to commit the party to free trade, and even Indiana, through Senator Turpie, was, against Watterson's propositions to make the president's message the tariff plank, without any reference to the platform of 1884. Gorman, Turpie and Cooper resterday expressed the GRAVEST DOUBTS OF SUCCESS with the president's message as the platform, and Senator Turpie advised the committee that Indiana could not be depended upon under such circumstances. It is to be hoped that these admonitions were given in a spirit of caution, and in hopes of prevention of extreme action the other way, and not in the actual belief that such would be the case, for the convention has done just what they advised against. The whole fight on Watterson yesterday was on his proposition to make the president's message the tariff plank of the platform. He would yield to no notice of the platform of 1884, because that platform lookedboth ways, twenty-five states voted against ignoring it, but the plank, as agreed upon, is stronger than Watterson's first proposition, in that it declares that the plank of 1884 has only one meaning, and that meaning is as Watterit. Thus he go asked, and the opposition yielded more than it appeared.

THE OTHER SIDE. This is the Watterson view of the settlement, but the opposition look at it differently. Gorman's contingent say that the whole fight was over the simple insertion of the figures 1884 in the platform. They did not care how it was put, but they wanted it in some way.

Watterson and Scott swore it should not go in, and Gorman swore it should. The latter emphasized his position by bringing Barnum, of Connecticut, to his side, and the chairman of the national committee and the senator from Maryland made it understood if they did not get 1884 in some shape they would both leave the national committee and let the campaign take care of itself. A majority of the committee, too, seemed to be stuck on the four little figures to such an extent that they would agree to nothing that did not recognize them. WHAT WILL THEY DO WITH IT?

They got what they wanted, and now that they have it, they don't know what to do with it. There is no possibility of straddling now, and Sam Randall and others cannot now take the stump and appeal to the protection vote, with the pledge that the platform does not conflict with its sentiment. The issue is squarely drawn, and the democracy takes the president's message as its standard. Senator Colquitt wrote a strong letter in behalf of Gray, which was read to the delegation yesterday. After Senator Voorhees's appear-would be ill ad sed to nominate Thurman, and urged his preference for Gray. HONORS FOR GEORGIANS. Bob Berner, as the vice-president of the convention from Georgia, occupied a seat near the president of the convention, and aid not have a chance to do anything but look handsome and be enthusiastic. John Triplett is on the committee to notify the president of his renomination, but returns tonight to Thomasville, from whence he will go to Washington. Flem duBignon took an active part in the proceeding of the committee on platform, in which he represented Georgia in the most prominent position assigned the state. He was in the frequent conference with Messrs. Watterson, Boott, Morrison and others of the leaders who compliment him highly on his services.

AN ERROR REFERRED TO. By the way, a mistake in either the compos-Itor or the telegraph made it appear in THE Constitution that he seconded the nomination of Henry Richardson for state committeeman, when he supported Colonel Estill for the same position, which nomination was seconded by Mr. Richardson. Jack Spalding nominated Richardson, but afterwards moved to make the choice of Estill unanimous.
